GENERAL NEWS.

Meagre Reports Received of the Virginia Election.

The Illinois Coal Mines Under Military Protection.

A Kentucky Mob Storm a Jail Under Lead of a Sheriff.

Virginia Election.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 25.—Appomattox, Prince Edward, Nottoway, Sussex and Isle of Wight counties elected a coalition ticket. In Isle of Wight L. R. Edwards, democrat, is believed elected sheriff. Nansemond elects the democratic ticket by about 900 majority. Negroes voted solid with the democrats. Farmville goes democratic. Dinwiddie county elected the readjuster ticket. Returns from southwestern counties are meagre. Washington county, Fulkerson's home, elects the entire democratic ticket except treasurer. Pittsylvania, Bedford, Campbell, Amherst, Nelson, Botetourt, Patrick and probably Rockbridge are democratic. Roanoke, Montgomery and Wythe elect readjuster tickets.

RICHMOND, May 25.—Readjusters claim that they have gained largely, particularly in white counties, while in counties with colored majorities they have had some losses through split tickets. With conflicting statements and the fact that not one-third of the state is heard from it is impossible to give anything like a satisfactory summary of the result.

Under Military Protection.

ST. LOUIS, May 25. Dispatches from Collinsville, received late to-night, say that a company of militia, under command of Lieutenant Fruit, arrived there this evening from Edwardsville, and are quartered in a large boarding house of the Abbey mining company near pit No. 4. Another company is en route from Taylorville. Two or three hundred strikers are said to be in Collinsville, but have made no demonstration since morning. President Crandall will resume operations in the Abbey mines to-morrow, having a force of men near by ready to go to work whenever protection is afforded. Other mines also resume, and if Governor Hamilton furnishes enough troops to protect men from violence by strikers most of the mines in the district will start up in a day or two.

A Mob Repulsed.

MT. STERLING, via LEXINGTON, Ky., May 25.—There has been confined in the county jail in Montgomery county for ten days past John Barnett and ten companions, known as the Barnett gang, charged with the murder of Vaughan Hilton on the night of Saturday, May 12th, on the edge of this county nearest to the Manifee line. Rumors had reached Judge James H. Hazeler, of this city, some days ago that a mob from Manifee county, composed of friends of the murdered man, were coming to take the prisoners at night and hang some of them at least. He had ordered that an extra guard be on duty at the jail every night. Last night the jailor, J. O. Stevens, who is quite old, had got the city marshal, Pat Punch, to take his place. Marshal Punch and Deputy Sheriff Geo. McCormick were keeping guard in the hall of the jail. Richard Farmer, James Thomas and Jesse Hainan, armed with shotguns, Spencer rifles and pistols were stationed in a front room up stairs.

At 1 o'clock a. m. a mob of a hundred or more on horses entered Mt. Sterling from the direction of Manifee and rode rapidly to the jail where they were reinforced by a small party on foot. When they advanced to the gate of the jail yard Richard Farmer from a window above with his shot-gun well loaded with buckshot in hand commanded a halt and asked who they were and what they wanted. "We want blood, and are going to have it," was the reply, and to the further command of Farmer to halt there rung in the night air "Close up they won't shoot;" and at the same moment some of the mob entered the gateway. When just within the gate another message came from Farmer, but this time it was a leaden one of buckshot, which felled the leader. With demon-like yells the mob commenced firing. The three guards from the upper windows meanwhile returned the fire as rapidly as possible for three or four minutes when the mob retreated.

The bells of the court house and engine house were promptly rung. The Cerro Gordo guards and many citizens soon came to the rescue, whereupon opening the jail door the wounded man who had fallen forward on the steps was carried into the jail and there recognized as A. J. Ringo, the high sheriff of Manifee county. Near the jail, wounded in the leg, was found Thomas Clark, a wealthy farmer of this county. Near him lay his horse dead, killed by the bullet from a Spencer rifle which had wounded its rider. Shortly after two or three saddle horses with no riders were found. Clark claimed that he was only passing and was accidentally shot, but was not a member of the mob. Sheriff Ringo when asked by Marshal Punch what he meant by heading the mob, said: "John Barrett and his gang have been bushwhacking the people for three years past and the good people of my county are getting tired of it. This gang have previously been charged with the murder of Jim Messer, of Gil Messer, of Vaughan Hilton two years ago, and were acquitted by the courts. Three months ago they were charged with firing old man Hilton's house, poisoning his cattle, stabbing and killing his horse and shooting old man Hilton and our courts were powerless to convict. Therefore after advising with the best men in my county I came here to hang Barnett and others." Ringo is dangerously wounded. This affair seems to be the result of a family feud existing for a long term of years past, which has, from first to last, cost many lives.

Hangman's Day.

LITTLE ROCK, May 25.—A Gazette special from Texarkana says: Joe Young, the negro who raped Mrs. Chism, was taken from the Miller county jail at night under a strong guard and conveyed thirty-five miles to Richmond, Little River county. Persons who had threatened to rescue the prisoner made no demonstrance, owing doubtless to the formidable escort. Richmond was reached in the afternoon where a great crowd had assembled and at one o'clock the fatal noose was adjusted about Young's neck, and he was swung off. The rope being stiff death did not immediately ensue. The posse returned to the telegraph station at Texarkana a little before ten to-night.

A Gazette special from Clarendon, Ark., says: At one o'clock p. m., in the presence of 3,000 people, Jack Taylor, a white man, was hung for murdering an old man named Hugh Ingram.

SHREVEPORT, May 25.—Lander Coleman, colored, was hanged at Bellevue, Bassick parish, this afternoon for the murder of his brother-in-law, John Grayline, last August. Coleman confessed his guilt and also said he killed John Gratton, his step-father, some years ago, for which a young man, white, named Benny Shaw, was tried. Coleman's neck was broken.

The secretary of the interior has directed the recognition of adding claims of settlers on public land in Montana ceded by the Crow Indians under agreement made June 20th, 1880, and ratified by congress April 12th, 1882. The secretary holds that these lands being ceded by definite boundaries became public lands upon date of approval of the act of ratification and from that date the legal rights of claimants and settlers took effect.

Heavy Kansas Storm.

McPHERSON, Kan., May 25. This county was visited by a heavy rain last night accompanied a severe wind and hail in places. One small house in this place was unroofed and three children sleeping up stairs blown into the street but without injury. Outhouses and wind mills were blown over and flues tumbled down but no serious damage. Wheat was injured from hail. The wind approached with the velocity of a hurricane coming from the west.

Indian Luxuries Cut Off.

Peterson, a reliable man who has just reached here from the ranch of Don Juan Elias, in Sonora, reports the arrival of a Mexican courier at the ranch yesterday from the direction of the headquarters of the Mexican army at Oposura with information that Crook had an engagement with a large body of Indians near Quayahcape in the Sierra Madres last week. Crook had sent forward a portion of the San Carlos scouts, who were surprised by the hostiles and driven back to the main body. COLLEGE NOTES.

Irving Institute Exhibition—Coming Events.

The exhibition of the Irving Institute, held at the college chapel last evening, was well attended and was a success. Miss Kate Young gave in a pleasant way as a piano solo, the May-Pole Dance, by Sidney Smith. The invocation was offered by the Rev. Mr. Gregg, pastor of the Congregational church.

The first of the evening's literary performances was an essay by Miss Kate M. Wright, "A Plea for the Fanatic." She praised enthusiasm and lauded the man who can die for an ideal, who can tread the untrodden paths from which most men shrink.

A sonata of Beethoven was rendered on the piano by Mrs. Held and was received as Mrs. Held's music is generally received.

Mr. Lyman I. Henry delivered an oration on "Unwritten Music." Some dull scribe writes down a part of the music of his soul, but the better part he cannot write. The grandest part of man is not apparent except as he strives after his ideals within. The unwritten music, the music of the soul, brings the infinite in close connection with the finite; it is not the music art can mold into form, but the ideal that art copies after. The ear of the soul can hear it.

Mrs. Carrie C. Tuckerman sang sweetly and with pleasing effect on the audience, the Nightingale's Trill, Mrs. Farrar accompanied her on the piano.

Miss May L. McL. recited "The Traveled Parson," an account of a preacher whose whole after life was changed because he had been sent to foreign lands on a vacation. She was attentively listened to.

Mr. Fred W. Manning then spoke of "The Cold Rush," which means an effort to conceal from the professor the fact that you don't know your lessons. After illustrating the cold rush in its relation to school work, he extended somewhat the application. He quoted from Shakespeare and from Horace, from the great Latin poet the important advice, "Composite" and the striking pun, "Pone one," and mentioned the famous ode beginning, "Integer vitæ sceleris que purus," and ending with "Lelage." The Delphic oracle was run on the cold rush system. On one occasion in answer to a question the oracle said, "The Greeks the Romans will conquer,"—the grandest cold rush on record. Mr. Manning was heartily applauded.

Mrs. H. L. Parker sang "A Home by the Sea." The audience were so well pleased that they encored her, and she sang a simple song of sea and love. Mrs. Farrar played the accompaniments.

The thanks of the society are extended to the audience for their attendance and attention, and to the musicians for their kind assistance.

It is proposed to open the laboratory some time next week and exhibit to the public the actual methods of doing work there. The time will be arranged hereafter.

Monday evening there will be the Occidental club's exhibition; Tuesday evening the Junior exhibition, and Wednesday the commencement.

"Esmeralda."

The story in "Esmeralda", says an exchange, is fascinating. It is like a mosaic. It exquisitely blends the greatest of social and life phases. In the relation there are no incongruities, no clumsy patch-work, nor strained conditions, though the types are not so choicely colored, shaded and graded in the play as though they were given the touches of the delightful description that is so great a charm of Mrs. Burnett's writing, they are given all possible relief and perspective of tone, which, by the capable company, is very pleasingly defined. Elbert Rogers is drawn in the happiest vein of that peculiar power of invention which makes the quaint types that live in the works of Mrs. Burnett so interesting. "Esmeralda" is a type of that womanhood that quits the girl only when some great event or calamity arouses the strong character that lies unknown beneath the trusting, confiding spirit of dependence to an exercise of its will. Dave, the other conspicious type, is a character shown in the rough, with all the attributes of nobility, having courage, but modest, uneducated, but learned in the school of right, and truth, and high moral principle; as hardy as a mountaineer, but as sensitive as a woman. Though there is some propinquity between these characters, as thus described, they are, nevertheless, so varied that each constitutes a distinct, and thoroughly interesting story. They are quite out of the conventional, and stand so boldly contrasted against the character with which they yet harmonize, that one can but feel the force, as well as perceive the excellence of, the creations, and admire them.

MINING MATTERS.

Notes Gleaned from Our Exchanges.

THE "WHITE MONEY" MYSTERY.

Denver Times.

The richness of the Pech-La-Ki mine in the Navajo region is one of the legends of the southwest. Its whereabouts have been a mystery, but the Durango Herald tells us that it has at last been definitely located. For several years it has been believed that a silver mine of fabulous richness existed near the southwestern corner of Colorado, in Utah or Arizona. The region has later been known as the Copper Cañon country—territory claimed by the Navajos. The stories of the Indians, backed up by the rich silver specimens they brought into the neighboring settlements, created an intense desire in the minds of many miners to discover the mine. Merrick and Mitchell, two enterprising and daring young men, were among the number who went in quest of the mine and returned with tidings that they had found it, but were murdered by the Indians on their second trip to the region. Numerous other white men have since lost their lives in endeavoring to discover the property. Hos-Kan-a-Nee, the Navajo chief, who controlled the property, guarded the same with jealous care. He is the Navajo chief who has so far successfully resisted all effort to remove him or his band to Fort Sumner. He is rich in sheep, goats and horses, and has a wealth of thirteen wives.

The news of the discovery of the mine was brought into Durango from the lower San Juan region by George W. Spencer a few days since. Mr. Allen, mail carrier between Bluff City, Utah, and the Mancos, brought in the news just before Spencer left. It appears that for many months William Ross, formerly of Glunn & Ross, in Durango, has lived with Hos-Kan-a-Nee, the Navajo chief and owner of the Pech-La-Ki. Ross finally succeeded in getting solid with Hos-Kan-a-Nee and the latter took him to the mine and it is presumed that Ross is one of the principal owners thereof.

Ross brought the news to Bluff City just before Allen left for the Mancos and returned to the discovery at once, accompanied by Cass Hite and a miner named Christian. Mr. Spencer says that Allen is a trustworthy man, and he has no doubt the mine has been really discovered. The only question in his mind is whether the property is as rich as has been represented.

The word, "Pech-La-Ki," is a conglomeration of Spanish and Navajo, and means "White Money," or silver. Further particulars from the Copper Cañon region will be awaited with exceeding interest.

RED MOUNTAIN.

Correspondence Durango Herald.

RED MOUNTAIN, May 23. The weather is nice and pleasant and the snow is melting away very rapidly, and the prospects are looking better for the mining interests. Prospectors who had to go out on account of snow are now returning and bringing others with them, and we notice new faces on the streets every day.

Building is progressing as rapidly as material can be gotten in. Some very good buildings are being erected. The building of Slaver & Co. would do credit to a much older town. It is a large building 25x50 feet, and is handsomely furnished and fitted up for saloon purposes. Miller & Co. have also put up a two-story building, 20x50 feet, which is an excellent piece of workmanship.

Prospecting is going on in every direction, and during the day we continually hear the reports of exploding giant powder, indicating that the miners are busy at work seeking the hidden treasures of the mountains.

Work has been commenced on the wagon road between Chattanooga and this place. This will be a great help to our mines, as ore can be shipped much cheaper by wagon than by pack animals, as has heretofore been done.

We do not want Durango merchants to feel unfriendly to our town on account of its close proximity to Ouray, for with ever so good a wagon road from Ouray, it would still be to the interests of merchants here to buy in Durango, and only have ten miles to haul on wagons instead of a fifty mile wagon by way of Ouray. It therefore behooves the business men of Durango to help this town, as they will derive the most benefit from it in the time to come. Quite a number of Durango men are interested here, both in town properties and in mines.

Our town has been incorporated, and will soon hold an election for town officers, and then we can put on metropolitan airs, and have dance hall rows like our sister towns, Silverton and Ouray.

We already have several families here and several more are only waiting for roads to get a little more passable before moving in, and I think it will be a very pleasant place to live in during the summer months, but for winter give us Durango.

NEW MEXICO.

Santa Fe New Mexican.

Sixty armed men took possession of the principal copper mine of the San Pedro & Canon del Agua Smelting company at one o'clock yesterday afternoon, and at last reports still retained possession, warning all miners not to approach under threats of being fired upon. Information concerning the affair was brought to the city at 8.30 last evening by Mr. Carroll Sprigg. This gentleman was sent out here some months ago to represent the eastern stockholders in this important institution. He states that full forces were at work in the smelter and mine up to the hour of noon yesterday, some thirty men being engaged in the mine, which is situated about two miles from the smelter and the company's store. When the miners returned to their work at 1 o'clock they were met by an armed party of men who appeared to have surrounded the mine, and a delegation of the belligerents went forward and yelled to the miners not to attempt to enter the mine, or they would rue the result. Upon receiving this information the miners turned about, and went in a body to the company's store, where the facts were reported to General Manager McGee. A number of officers were sent out to examine into the matter, but these, too, were warned not to come near, and returning to the store the first information was confirmed, and a council was held as to the best thing to be done under the circumstances. A count of noses showed that the company outnumbered the armed intruders three times or more, and firearms were plentiful, but wise counsel prevailed, and it was decided not to oppose the belligerents, but to seek redress through the proper legal channels. Accordingly Mr. Sprigg took his buggy and made haste to the city, covering the distance forty-two miles—in seven and a half hours, and that too over the roughest road imaginable. The facts were immediately laid before the company's local attorneys, who took the matter under advisement, intending to take legal steps in the matter this morning. Mr. Sprigg says it was reported to the miners that the armed party was acting under authority from Mariano S. Otero, one of the plaintiffs in a suit now pending before Judge Axtell, for possession of this mine, the Cañon del Agua company being the defendant. This report, however, is believed to be without foundation, for it is thought this gentleman is far too good a citizen to countenance such work.

The result will be untold damage to the majority of workingmen residing in that portion of Santa Fe county. This mine is the chief source of supply for the smelter, the product of which is upwards of 125 tons monthly, and furnishing employment to about 200 men, including the miners. It will be impossible to keep the furnaces supplied if work in this mine ceases for more than a day or two, and under the circumstances all of the employes are likely to be turned off at any moment. The names of the leaders of the intrusive band are unknown at this writing.

BUNKER HILL TO THE FRONT.

Salida Mail.

For several days it has been known in a general way that some very rich assays have been had from the Longfellow mine in Bunker Hill district, and that the miners in that camp are away up in their estimation of the camp's prospects. The Mail has known of these assays, by whom and when made, but has deferred saying anything about it until the good news should be verified.

On Friday last Mr. Twitchell received a certificate of assay made by E. E. Burlingame, Denver, that gave nearly nine hundred dollars per ton. This was on a sample of ore from a new body opened in the Longfellow. This (Tuesday) morning Mr. Roller received from Mr. Burlingame a certificate of assay from ore taken from the same mine which gives 2032½ ounces of silver per ton, with a note at the bottom which says, chloride of silver, 20 and 74-100 per cent.

This ore is found in the drift that is being run along the vein of the Longfellow, and while the body at present opened is not large, it is estimated that several tons can at once be taken out. The work of development on this property will be prosecuted by means of a shaft in the new mineral discovery and drifts into the hill.

The news of the new and rich openings has been kept comparatively quiet, yet it has leaked out and has had the effect of inspiring a large number of persons with the desire to become mine owners. For two or three days a large number of men have been going into the neighborhood of the new find, and to-day the hills there are said to be almost alive with prospectors. A few have come down from Buena Vista, some from Garfield and Chaffee, and the great carbonate camp of Leadville has also furnished a number.

The Mail has no desire to build up a false boom, to cause men to run after what is not there. It has believed all the time, as its files for three years will show, that the hills east of Salida are full of rich minerals, and it now believes that the time has arrived when these deposits will be opened. It is an excellent field for the prospector and the Mail not only hopes, but expects, that many of Salida's citizens will strike it rich in the new carbonate camp.

Those who go into the camp for the purpose of prospecting must not expect to find the silver in chunks on top of the ground. It will take work to get it, and can only be had by digging. Have faith and dig.

President Arthur has the enviable reputation of being the first president who has not appointed a relative to office. He has now only one relative in the service. This is his brother, who was appointed paymaster some twenty years ago.

It is said that Massachusetts druggists argue against the printing the composition of patent medicines on bottles, on the ground that it would remove their mystery, and they think this would remove their curative power. The point is well taken, and should be sustained.

In an address before the Kansas editorial association the other day, the secretary said Kansas had more papers to the population than any other state. Colorado claims this honor—for intelligence. Kansas has one to every 3,000 inhabitants, and Colorado one to every 1,900.

General Rosecrans has declined to be the democratic candidate for president. This action may be considered quite previous. But he shows a certain amount of good sense in this, for it he wished to decline it is manifest that his only chance to do so was before the convention met.

Fitzgerald & Co. have sued the South Park Railroad company for $100,000 for work done in the Alpine tunnel before the Union Pacific bought the road. The Union Pacific claims that the debt belongs to the old organization. This seems to be more trouble for ex-Governor Evans.

The brave Crook has been heard from. He has met the Indians and defeated them. The news will occasion no surprise because it was expected. He is as vigilant as he is brave and hence he never has been defeated by the Indians. There is no general in the army who has or merits the confidence placed in Crook.

Judah P. Benjamin is at last convinced that the abolition of slavery was a good thing, but he thinks that the union will break up some day from inherent weakness. This opinion is entertained because Mr. Benjamin can hardly realize the true state of feeling in this country. He thinks that we are as we were in 1850-60. But the fact is that there has never been a stronger and more universal union feeling since the war of 1812.

Commending on the tariff plank in the Kentucky platform the Boston Herald well says: "If this is a fair sample of the honesty "and courage of the democratic party upon "the question of tariff reduction, the tax-burdened country can look for no relief in that "quarter. It has neither principles, policy "nor pluck—nothing but a controlling and "uncontrollable appetite for offices. And it "will die of hunger."

The Tribune expresses this excellent opinion of Mahoneism: "A direct and open break with Mahone would strengthen the administration greatly with the country. Senator Mahone is not at the head of a party, but of an avowed spoils organization whose only issue is repudiation and whose only object is office. The assertion that the state of affairs in Virginia is a step in advance is an old pretense. It is not based on anything. The republican party is heartily ashamed of its connection with it."

The exposure of Col. A. P. Morrow is bringing to light the vicious influence of the army poker club in Washington. It has effected the ruin of several otherwise good officers and several other officers are likely to be exposed. The worst feature is that several disbursing officers have been connected with it. Several paymasters have been compelled to sell their pay accounts to meet their debts of honor (?). It is a queer standard of honor, that induces a man to embezzle, or to use a plain word, to steal, to protect his honor.

The feeling over the pope's circular letter does not abate. It is bitterer than ever on the part of the Irish Catholics in this country. But the clerical party is now being heard from, and submission is very generally urged by it. The pope did not condemn the contributions to the Parnell fund on political grounds, but on moral grounds. With the clergy this is final, as to question the advice given in this letter is to question the authority of the pope. He has said certain actions are immoral, and there can be no gainsaying such a decree. Father Frisbie, of the college of St. Francis, gives his adherence as follows: "I cannot conceive any Irish priest, who was a true member of the church and a real lover of his country, entertaining for a moment any thought but that of instant compliance. For my part, I was heartily glad to see the papal interference come at last."

Lake county is asking for a special session of the legislature to save Lake county from bankruptcy. The warrants are now worth only twenty cents on a dollar, and the county is obliged to pay five dollars in warrants for every dollar's worth of supplies or services it buys. This is a bad state of affairs. But it is hardly right to ask so large a contribution from the state toward relief as the expense of a special session of the legislature will be. Lake can help herself. If she will put men in the county offices who will spend money discreetly and honestly, the warrants will rise as rapidly in value as though special legislation were had. The depreciation in warrants is as largely due to want of confidence in the honesty with which county affairs are managed as to any other cause. Lake county wants honest officials more than it wants special legislation. The whole state will oppose an extra session of the legislature which will be so costly to the state in every way. If this depreciation in warrants were due entirely to misfortune and not bad management, there would be a very general desire to help Lake out of her difficulty. But this is not the case and it is known that she has the remedy at hand in putting good men in office.

Even Horatio Seymour advises against his party drifting on to the rock of free trade where if it strikes he thinks it is doomed to be wrecked. The democrats do not look at this question from the right or wrong of it, but how it will affect party success. It is purely selfish and cares little for any principle involved. This is a great mistake which has been demonstrated again and again. The party would have the country think its success is essential to the nation's prosperity. It cannot prove this to the country unless such a party is in power that any change would be for the better. Then it becomes simply a choice of evils. It can prove, however, that the triumph of certain principles are essential to national prosperity and by representing them may ride into power. But as it has no principles, it has really no issue to present. If the democratic party triumphs next year, it will be simply because the country thinks it best to change the offices, not the laws and policy. The democratic party can only urge this issue which fought of itself to condemn it. Everything points now to a republican success next year, because it is not opposed by a party with any principle or policy beyond getting office. There will be no moral revolution, or broad discussion of political questions.

PERSONAL.

Senator Edmunds' taxable personal estate in Burlington, Vermont, his home, is rated at $75,000.

The leading eccentricity of Esrom Morse, of Rockport, Me., is that his name spells backward and forward the same.

John Bright sits up late at night to smoke and drink good whisky, but always feels fresh in the morning. At least he says he does.

Paul Hayne's white cottage, set in fifty acres of ground, was the gift of ex-Governor Colquitt, of Georgia, after the poet's house had burned down.

Roscoe Conkling, sitting on the deck of a steamer, always ducks his head when the vessel passes under the East River bridge.—[Philadelphia Press.

The death of Ex-Governor Washburne leaves only three men living who were governors of states at the beginning of the civil war—Sprague, of Rhode Island; Kirkwood, of Iowa, and Curtin, of Pennsylvania.

The letter Oliver Wendell Holmes sent to Mr. Peaslee, superintendent of the Cincinnati schools, has been much quoted, especially his declaration that, although he has written many verses, his real poems are the trees he has planted, for, "What are these maples, beeches and birches?" he asks, "but odes, idyls and madrigals? what are these solemn pines, firs and spruces but holy hymns?"

A western paper tells that a lady who knows her husband never shakes dice for the drinks and that he is strictly sober, was awakened the other night by her husband, who, in his sleep, exclaimed: "Three trays to beat. Horse on me." "What do you mean?" asked the wife, shaking him. "What does who mean?" "You." "What about?" "Why, you cried out, 'Horse on me.'" "That's all right. I merely had a nightmare."

Shakespeare and the Bible.

The Athenæum:

In attempting to ascertain this it is necessary to bear in mind the period over which his writings extended, and the different English versions of the bible which were then extant. Shakespeare was born in 1564 and died in 1616, and though only about 14 or 16 of his plays were published during his life-time, it is generally admitted that 34 out of the 36 plays were written between 1571 and 1611, and that only two plays were written after the appearance of the present authorized version, viz., 1611. Apart, therefore, from the question whether Shakespeare sympathized with the great outcry against the present authorized version which was raised when it first appeared, he could not possibly have used it for his literary work even if he had wished to do so. Our investigation is thus restricted to the English translations prior to the authorized version. Of these there are no less than eight, one of the New Testament and seven of the entire bible; seven Protestant and one Roman Catholic. They are as follows: (1) Tyndale's translation of the New, which appeared in 1525; (2) Coverdale's translation of the entire bible, which was published in 1535; (3) Matthew's bible, which appeared in 1537; (4) Lord Cromwell's or the Great Bible, which appeared in 1539; (5) Archbishop Cranmer's bible, of which there were published no less than six different issues in 1540-41; (6) the Geneva version, also called the Breeches bible, which was published by the English refugees at Geneva, who fled thither to escape the Marian persecutions, and which became the version of the Puritans; (7) the Bishop's bible, which appeared in 1568, and was designed to counteract the Calvinistic and Puritanic tinge of the Geneva version; and (8) the Roman Catholic version, called the Rhemish and Douay bible, because the New Testament appeared at Rheims in 1582, and the Old Testament was published 27 years later at Douay (1609). It is also called Douay alone, because the same Roman Catholic divine of the college at Douay made this version. What makes it so difficult to ascertain the precise version which Shakespeare used is the fact that in nearly all his allusions to biblical events he gives his own striking paraphrases in his own matchless language, as is to be seen from the above quoted narrative about Jacob and Laban, and the proverbial saying about the camel and the eye of the needle. Even in the dialogue between the two clowns about Adam bearing arms, where Shakespeare puts into the mouth of the first clown, as a direct quotation from the bible, "The Scripture says Adam digged," he quotes a passage which does not occur in the bible. The allusion manifestly is to Genesis ii.: 15, where we are told that Adam was put into the garden to dress it or to work it, as all the versions then extant render it. It will thus be seen that even in this instance, where the pun rests upon a play on the words, Shakespeare gives his own paraphrase.

German Novels.

Blackwood's Magazine.

That the Germans are not much of a novel-reading nation is shown by the prices at which their novels are published. The circulating library system does not flourish to the prejudice of the publishers, and yet the trade can profit but little by that. The Germans are a frugal race—generally speaking, they are far from rich and they are the last people to indulge freely in the costly luxury of light literature, slightly stitched in paper, often issued in three or four widely printed volumes, and selling from 12s to 20s. The German seldom reads on a journey, although his slow-going trains should give him ample leisure. The men envelop themselves in contemplation and tobacco smoke, while the more industrious of the ladies may meditate over their knitting needles. And unless among avowed literary people we rarely see the living rooms littered with a fascinating profusion of books. Yet of late years novel writing has been rapidly on the increase, so it may be supposed that a taste is being slowly developed, which authors may turn to more profitable account. In the meantime, the novels, as may be supposed, reflect the predominating tendencies of the national life and character. German society is seldom volatile or frivolous; even in the great capitals there is little of that whirl of dissipation which lasts through our ever-lengthening London season, and has such attractions for the Parisians and their foreign visitors, even in these duller days of the republic. With the exception of a few very wealthy land-owners among the highest nobility, and some of the new-made millionaires, not many people have much money to throw away. The tastes of the Germans are simple; their habits are homely; and the middle classes, who with us must be aping their betters and giving entertainments out of all proportion to their means, are still content to amuse themselves in music gardens, where they gossip between the pieces over ices and beer. There are few fashionable balls, with flirting-bowers among the hothouse plants; few garden parties, with sequestered lawns embossomed in shady alleys; and, moreover, the tone of morality is creditable for the most part, which is another misfortune for the social novelist. For the scenes which are his favorite subjects in other countries would have slight interest for the great majority of his native-born readers, as they would have little personal sympathy with his more risque situations. Novelists like Spielhagen have attempted something in that way, though they have dwelt chiefly with financial sensations and sought their excitements in speculations on the Bourse.

In the Whole History of Medicine

No preparation has ever performed such marvellous cures, or maintained so wide a reputation, as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is recognized as the world's remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs. Its long-continued series of wonderful cures in all climates has made it universally known as a safe and reliable agent to employ. Against ordinary colds, which are the forerunners of more serious disorders, it acts speedily and surely, always relieving suffering, and often saving life. The protection it affords, by its timely use in throat and chest disorders, makes it an invaluable remedy to be kept always on hand in every home. No person can afford to be without it, and those who have once used it never will. From their knowledge of its composition and operation, physicians use the Cherry Pectoral extensively in their practice, and clergymen recommend it. It is absolutely certain in its healing effects, and will always cure where cures are possible.

Various Causes—

Advancing years, care, sickness, disappointment, and hereditary predisposition—all operate to turn the hair gray, and either of them inclines it to shed prematurely. Ayer's Hair Vigor will restore faded or gray, light or red hair to a rich brown or deep black, as may be desired. It softens and cleanses the scalp, giving it a healthy action. It removes and cures dandruff and humors. By its use falling hair is checked, and a new growth will be produced in all cases where the follicles are not destroyed or the glands decayed. Its effects are beautifully shown on brashy, weak, or sickly hair, on which a few applications will produce the gloss and freshness of youth. Harmless and sure in its results, it is incomparable as a dressing, and is especially valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

Ayer's Hair Vigor is colorless; contains neither oil nor dye; and will not soil or color white cambric; yet it lasts long on the hair, and keeps it fresh and vigorous, imparting an agreeable perfume.

State Sunday School Convention.

The third annual convention of the Colorado Sunday School association will be held in the opera house in Pueblo, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 5, 6 and 7, at which a large attendance of delegates and visitors is expected, representing the interests of every school in the state. The success of the second convention last year at Colorado Springs was unparalleled in the early history of state Sunday School conventions, and the gathering at Pueblo this year promises even better things than then. The programme is one of great interest, and deals with the most practical and important Sunday School questions of the day.

Each Sabbath School in the state is requested to immediately elect delegates (limited to 4) to represent it in the convention, and forward the names of the same to the secretary of the local committee, Arthur A. Foote, Pueblo, Colorado, who will arrange for their entertainment during the convention. Persons desiring to attend the sessions of the convention, as visitors, may apply to the same address for entertainment, but their applications will receive attention after those of the regularly credentialed delegates.

Arrangements have been made with the Union Pacific railroad, whereby ticket agents on all its branches in the state will sell tickets to Denver and return for one and one-fifth (1 1-5) fares, to persons holding and presenting certificates of authorization, which can be secured by applying to the Methodist minister of each place.

The present fare from Denver and Colorado Springs to Pueblo on the morning and noon trains on both the Denver and Rio Grande and The Denver and New Orleans railroads, is seventy-five cents each way, which rate is likely to exist beyond the time of the convention, but in case the regular rates are in vogue at the time of the convention, persons attending its sessions and having paid full fare in coming, and having secured a receipt from the ticket agent to that effect, may secure certificates from the railroad secretary of the convention, entitling them to a return ticket for one-fifth fare, upon presentation of the receipt to the secretary. On all lines of the Denver & Rio Grande road, where regular rates are in existence, persons attending the convention will pay full fare to Pueblo, and, upon application to the railroad secretary at the convention, will be returned for one-fifth fare, on presentation of the receipt, as specified above.

Persons unable to determine at present as to their ability to attend, and deciding at an hour too late to forward their names, will notify the committee on entertainment of their presence at the convention upon their arrival, through one of the pages. Each incoming train will be met by the convention pages, and delegates will be escorted by them to the place of convention.

The people of Pueblo are making most ample and commodious arrangements for the comfort of delegates and visitors, and it behooves the Sabbath schools of the city to immediately attend to the election of delegates and forward their names to the address given above. The reduced fares will be good until June 9th, and persons desiring to visit Colorado Springs or Manitou may take advantage of this opportunity. For further details apply to F. Clark, jr., No. 1 Sherman avenue, Denver.

The Iron Industry.

CHICAGO, May 25.—From interviews with leading iron men of this city it appears to be a settled fact that the iron mills of Chicago will shut down June 1st, unless some unexpected concession is made by the Amalgamated association before that time, which is deemed highly improbable by manufacturers. The Union Iron and Steel company, which was expected to resume work June 1st, has apparently abandoned all intention of doing so.

A Canine Critic.

London Society.

In the year 1830 a phenomenon appeared in the musical world which attracted considerable attention in Germany. A gentleman who was well known as an enthusiastic musical amateur of Darmstadt, in the Grand Duchy of Hesse, had a female spaniel, called Poodle. By striking the animal whenever music was played, and a false note struck, she was made to howl. At last the threat of the upraised stick was equally effective, presently a mere glance of the master's eye produced the same howl, and at last the false note itself. A German paper of the period says: "At the present time there is not a concert or an opera at Darmstadt to which Mr. Frederick S. and his wonderful dog are not invited, or at least the dog. The voice of the prima donna, the instruments of the band, whether violin, clarionet, hautbois or bugle—all of them must execute their parts in perfect harmony, otherwise Poodle looks at its master, erects its ears, shows its grinders and howls outright. Old or new pieces, known or unknown to the dog, produce the same effect." It must not be supposed that the discrimination of the creature was confined to the mere execution of musical compositions. Whatever may have been the case at the outset of its musical career, towards its close a vicious modulation of a false relation of parts produced the same result. "Sometimes to tease the dog," says our German authority, "Mr. S. and his friends take a pleasure in annoying the canine critic, by emitting all sorts of discordant sounds from instrument and voice. On such occasions the creature loses all self-command, its eyes shoot forth fiery flashes, and long and frightful howls respond to the inharmonious concert of the mischievous bipeds. But the latter must be careful not to go too far, because when the dog's patience is much tried it becomes savage, and endeavors to bite both its persecutors and their instruments."

Chinese Poisons.

Nature.

The commonest poisons are said to be opium, arsenic, and certain noxious essences derived from herbs. But besides these other things are taken by suicides, and given by murderers to cause death. In some of the southern provinces there exists a particular kind of silkworm, known as the golden silkworm, which is reared by miscreants to serve either purpose as occasion may require. Quicksilver, which is also used with fatal effect, is either swallowed, or, like the "juice of cursed hebenon" which sent Hamlet's father to his account, is poured into the ear. The torture necessarily consequent on this last method of using it must be so excessive that it may safely be assumed that it finds favor only with murderers. Swallowing gold, on the other hand, seems to be the favorite way of seeking death with wealthy suicides. It has been held by some writers that the expression "swallowing gold" is but a metaphorical phrase meaning "swallowing poison," just as when a notable culprit is ordered to strangle himself he is said to have had "a silken cord" sent to him. But the "Coroners' Manual" puts it beyond question that gold is actually swallowed, and it prescribes the remedies which should be adopted to effect a cure. Gold not being a poison, death is the result either of suffocation or laceration of the intestines. When suffocation is imminent, draughts of strained rice-water, we are told, should be given to wash the gold downward, and when this object has been attained, the flesh of partridges, among other things, should be eaten by the patient to "soften the gold" and thus prevent its doing injury. Silver is also taken in the same way. But though wealthy Chinamen thus find a pleasure in seeking extinction by means of the precious metals, they have never gone the length of pounding diamonds to get rid of either themselves or their enemies after the manner of Indian potentates.

The first excursion of the season will be run from Denver to Manitou to-morrow.

—Howbert Bros. will occupy their new store, the one recently vacated by Monk & Ingalsbe, on Monday morning.

Hon. K. G. Cooper, manager of the Denver Republican, was in the city several hours yesterday on business.

Manager Nye has gone to Pueblo to consult with some parties there who are thinking of opening a new opera house.

Bishop Spalding conducted confirmation service at Grace Episcopal church yesterday and returned to Denver on the afternoon train.

—The weather still keeps cool and is decidedly backward for this season of the year. There were flurries of snow and hail several times yesterday.

District Clerk Stovell has blank applications of all descriptions for those who wish to apply for revenue licenses or to pay revenue tax. He can be found in his office at the court house.

Mr. W. H. Montgomery, of the GAZETTE force, has been offered and accepted the position of foreman of the Chieftain job department at Pueblo, and leaves for his new field of labor to-morrow.

Mr. Frank B. Semple, of the Burlington & Missouri railway, was in the city a short time yesterday. He seems confident that the railroads will carry more people into Colorado this year than ever before.

Members of Company A are notified to assemble at the Armory on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to join with the G. A. R.'s in attending a special service to be held in one of the churches on that evening.

The supreme court has released from custody in our county jail William Simpson, the colored man who was captured in Pueblo county a short time ago for larceny committed in 1875. His release was effected on account of the defective criminal law of March, 1881.

George M. Pullman and party after spending the night at Manitou rode over to Colorado Springs in carriages yesterday morning and left by special train on the Denver & Rio Grande for Salt Lake City. They are on their way to the Pacific slope where they will remain several weeks.

An encampment of Odd Fellows will be instituted in this city to-night with a membership of from twenty to twenty-five persons. The head officer of the Odd Fellows' order in Colorado will be present to aid in the organization of the encampment. It is also expected that about forty members of the encampments at Denver and Pueblo will be in attendance.

The excursion to the Grand Cañon of the Arkansas under the auspices of the Congregational church, will leave the depot this morning promptly at 8:30 o'clock. Considering the cheapness of the fare, $3.50 for the round trip, a large number will take advantage of the opportunity offered to visit one of the grand cañons of Colorado. Those going should be sure to provide themselves with lunches.

The second quarterly examination of the teachers of El Paso county is now in progress at Court House hall under the direction of County Superintendent Eaton. Only two applicants for certificates were undergoing examination yesterday but others are expected to-day. It is a customary thing for [illegible] few teachers to pass examination just previous to the summer vacation. They prefer waiting until fall.

A. D. Mann, the Colorado agent of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railway, writes Superintendent Eaton enclosing a communication from George H. Daniels, pool commissioner, which says that the managers of the [illegible] now have under advisement the question of making a reduction in rates to teachers between Colorado and the Missouri river. If any reduction is made Mr. Eaton will at once be notified.

On Thursday afternoon while Mrs. W. B. Evans, of Larkspur, was driving home from school with her two children the sudden approach of a team from behind frightened the horse which turned short, upsetting the buggy and throwing the occupants to the ground. Mrs. Evans received a fracture of the collar bone and shoulder blade, but the children with the exception of some slight bruises escaped injury. Immediately after the accident Mrs. Evans was brought to this city and is now under the treatment of Dr. Horn.

The east-bound Salt Lake express, on the Denver and Rio Grande, met with an accident while crossing the Gunnison river seventy miles west of Gunnison City on Thursday. It seems that one of the spans of the bridge crossing the river was either rendered defective or washed away by the strong current in the stream. The engineer was ignorant of any danger until just as he approached the bridge. Without warning the engine plunged into the stream carrying with it the mail and baggage car. One of the other cars hung partly over the abutment but did not fall. The particulars of the accident are meagre, but from what can be learned it is understood that the engine sank to the bottom of the river, carrying with it the engineer and fireman neither of whom have since been seen. The two cars became detached from the engine and floated down the stream nearly a mile. It is not stated that the occupants of the cars were injured. Luckily the lives of none of the passengers were sacrificed.

Common-sense Remedy.

SALICYLICA.

No More Rheumatism, Gout or Neuralgia.

Immediate Relief Warranted.
Permanent Cure Guaranted.

Five years established and never known to fail in a single case, acute or chronic. Refer to all prominent physicians and druggists for the standing of Salicylica.

THE SECRET:

THE ONLY DISSOLVER OF THE POISONOUS URIC ACID WHICH EXISTS IN THE BLOOD OF RHEUMATIC AND GOUTY PATIENTS.

SALICYLICA is known as a common-sense remedy, because it strikes directly at the cause of Rheumatism, Gout and Neuralgia, while so many so-called specifics and supposed panaceas only treat locally the effects.

It has been conceded by eminent scientists that outward applications, such as rubbing with oils, ointments, liniments, and soothing lotions will not eradicate these diseases which are the result of the poisoning of the blood with Uric Acid.

SALICYLICA works with marvelous effect on this acid and so removes the disorder. It is now exclusively used by all celebrated physicians of America and Europe. Highest Medical Academy of Paris reports 95 per cent. cures in three days.

REMEMBER

that SALICYLICA is a certain cure for RHEUMATISM, GOUT and NEURALGIA. The most intense pains are subdued almost instantly.

Give it a trial. Relief guaranteed or money refunded.
